

Juzcar to Ronda

Cycling - 23km

This short but hilly route takes us from the quirky blue “Smurf village” of Juzcar through the mountains to Ronda. Juzcar is hidden within the rugged limestone mountains and chestnut tree-filled slopes of the Genal valley, so the route begins with a sustained 13km climb on a scenic, narrow, twisting road before we finish with a sweeping descent into Ronda.

Juzcar holds the unique title of “the first and only official Smurf village in the world”, painted bright “Smurf blue” as part of the creative campaign to launch the Smurf movies. It is one of the 7 tiny, traditional villages (all with less than 300 inhabitants) of the Alto Genal (upper Genal Valley), which make their living from the chestnut trees that fill this area. All the other 6 villages remain resolutely white!
